AMERICA'S TACTICS.

WERE BRITISH GUNNERS DECEIVED?

R. B. Cunningham Graham has the following letter in the 'St. James' Gazette':

It has been pointed out to me that you stated that my information concerning the destruction of English gunners to Admiral Dewey's fleet needed confirmation. I distinctly stated to your representative that I was unable to give the name of my informant, but I am prepared to do so should an inquiry be ordered into the matter. It is quite evident from the recent Court Martial in which a British seaman was dismissed the navy and sentenced to 15 months imprisonment for negotiating the sale of a signal-book, that some foreign Power or other not friendly to us has been endeavoring to treacherously get possession of information which would enable it to damage our fleet.

There are at present two Powers to whom such a signal-book could be of immediate value. These are Spain and America. The way in which Spain has conducted the war and the absolute want of method she has shown in all her proceedings, preclude the idea that it could have been Spain. There only remains the United States of North America. Now, in my interview I set forth six occasions on which I saw the Powers has shown herself unfriendly to Great Britain.

Hitherto my statements have been unchallenged. I argue that it was impossible for a bona-fide alliance could ever be concluded between this country and the United States of North America. Should it prove to have been the latter Power, which has tried to 'convey' our signal-book, it surely adds another count to the long series of unfriendly actions on the part of America against this country.

PROTECTING CANADIAN GOODS.

The issue of the Adelaide (South Australia) Advertiser for June 14th, just received gives the particulars of a trial which proves that even in that far country the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. is as active in defending its rights and protecting the public against the schemes of the substitutes and counterfeits. It is here as home in Canada. In the trial in question Frank Ashley and William Smith were shown to have been engaged in offering a substitute for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, claiming that the substitute was the same as that justly celebrated medicine. Both men were placed under a subpoena to appear and defend themselves under false pretenses and conspiring to defraud the public, and evidence was shown before the Chief Justice of the Criminal Court, that the defendant's lawyer made a strong fight in their behalf, but in spite of this the jury, after a short absence from the court returned a verdict of guilty in both cases. The Chief Justice deferred sentence until the close of the sittings. In addressing the jury, however, the learned judge spoke very strongly concerning the evils of substitution and the dangers to the victim that may ensue from this practice, and too common practice. -Toronto Globe.

DEATH OF ARCHBISHOP WALSH.

Toronto, July 31-Archbishop Walsh died tonight very suddenly. He had been confined to his room for a few days from the effects of a recent accident, but serious consequences were anticipated until ten o'clock to-night. He had been chatting with Mr. Eugene McCarthy, who at that hour, when symptoms of heart failure became evident, Dr. Dwyer, of St. Michael's Hospital, was hastily summoned.

The Archbishop, however, rapidly sank and expired at twenty minutes to eleven o'clock in the presence of Dr. Dwyer, Mr. O'Keefe, and Father Walsh, his secretary.

When he realized death was near Archbishop Walsh asked for the last rites of the church and the Rev. Vicar-General McCann as administrator of the diocese.

Archbishop Walsh was born May 23, 1830, in the parish of Mooncoin, county Kilkenny, Ireland, and was educated at St. John's College, Waterford, and the Grand Seminary, Montreal, his secretary in 1852.

He received the tonsure from Bishop Larocque in 1853 and minor orders from Bishop Bouquet a year later. He was ordained by Bishop Charbonnel, at Toronto.

His first charge was the Brock Mission and Lake Simcoe, where, when he was also the first resident pastor, and endured much hardship. In 1857 he was appointed to the charge of St. Mary's parish, Toronto, and in 1859 was promoted to the rectory of St. Michael's cathedral, being there promoted to the charge of the diocese in 1862. He visited Rome in 1861, and was received with marked attention by the Pope.

In 1862 Mr. Walsh succeeded Bishop Piusmeant as Bishop of Sandwich, subsequently removing the episcopal centre of the diocese to London, the title of the see being changed accordingly. He did much important work in this diocese in the way of building churches, and was recognized as the natural successor to Archbishop Lynch in the archdiocese of Toronto on the death of that prelate in 1880.

He was appointed on August of that year, the installation taking place in St. Michael's cathedral on November 27.

Archbishop Walsh took no public part in the Manitoba school question and on most subjects adopted a cautious and conservative position.

THE LAPAGERIA.

One of the Most Beautiful of Cool Green-house Plants.

Those who have never seen the lapageria in flower have but a poor conception of its beauty, as a writer in Gardening remarks in presenting a fine illustration of a cluster of red and white lapagerias, with information, as follows, about the plant: The individual flower is as rich as the most lovely orchid. In these days, when in bouquets must be long stemmed, or at least on their own stem, the lapageria will not readily find a place, but in the very choicest and richest of decorations, no grace a mirror or picture, it has no equal.

It is a cool greenhouse plant, even standing a few degrees of frost without harm, and likes a rather moist atmosphere.

phers. A temperature of 40 degrees to 50 degrees in winter and as cool as summer will do very well.

Lapagerias may be grown in large pots or tubs and trained on a wire frame, but planted out in a border is their proper place and trained to a trellis on the wall. Their flowering season is from end of July to November. The soil used by European gardeners for growing lapagerias is three parts fibrous peat to one of loam, with about a tenth of the whole sharp sand or broken up charcoal.

When growing the lapageria likes plenty of water at the roots and at all times except when in flower should be daily syringed. There is no more important part of the culture than perfect drainage of the soil. If in a 12 inch pot, at least one-fourth should be drainage of broken brick or crocks. If in a border, say, 2 by 4 feet and 2 feet deep, 6 inches at the bottom should be of some material to let the water pass freely away.

Pansies For Early Bloom.

If you have a hotbed, soon pansy seed there in August. Transplant until they are five or six inches high. Press down mats on outside and paper on inside during cold weather, or instead of paper give a light covering of leaves, which, to be an ideal covering, should not be packed closely. Give air and light on warm, sunny days. Very early in spring the protection may be removed, and if carefully watered and sheltered from the north wind the pansies will soon be blooming. As soon as the frost is out of the ground they may be transplanted to the garden. Make the bed rich with old, fine stable manure (preferably from the cow stable). Give them a sunny situation, I say, with all deference to writers who say pansies need a shady position. Mince the pansy bed with chip, dirt, chopped hay, lawn clippings, fine manure from the bottom of the heap, or better than anything else, if you can get it, a box of earth or leaf mold. A good mulch and plenty of water, and we have no sunshine that will hurt the pansies. They bloom earlier in spring and remain in bloom later in fall in a sunny situation, but possibly a sheltered bed would give more and larger blooms in midsummer.—Vick's Magazine.

Root Suffocation.

It is difficult to get people to understand that tree can die from drowning just as animals can, says Meehan's Monthly. Trees feed primarily by the roots, but there must be a certain amount of oxygen in the soil to enable them to make use of the food. Standing water prevents the action of the life giving oxygen. A Boston correspondent refers to two large horse chestnuts which were moved last spring with the greatest skill, but they died. In the fall an examination was made, and the holes found to be full of water within one foot of the surface of the ground. The holes were really flowerpots without the necessary holes in the bottom to allow the water to escape. There can be no better lesson in gardening than to be continually remembering why it is necessary to have a hole in a flowerpot.

Money Makers.

In the last annual report of the New Jersey Horticultural society it is stated that the trend of testimony shows the best money producing plants in that state to be the Kidney of pears, the Sandy of strawberries and the Cuthbert of raspberries.

SQUAB FARMING.

Now a Michigan Man Has Built Up a Profitable Business.

The only squab farm in Michigan is located about three miles south of Grand Haven. Squabs are young doves or pigeons and are esteemed great delicacies in restaurants and night club luncheon circles. There are several large squab farms in the east and one near Toledo, but the only one in Michigan so far as known is at Grand Haven, and it is conducted by P. J. Benzenstein. His farm comprises about 10 acres of land, but only a small portion of this is given to the squab industry, the rest being planted to wheat and corn, which form the staple diet for the old doves. He has a big cage of woven wire. It is 80 by 120 feet and 20 feet high, and the doves are kept confined by the wire running on the sides and above. On the north side of the cage is a long, low building, in which the doves keep house. The roof has a southern exposure and a window, and here the doves sun themselves. The building is divided by partitions into rooms about ten feet square. These rooms are banded up on three sides, tier above tier, with boxes, and these boxes are the nests, where the eggs are laid and the young are hatched and grow to be squabs. The partitions and boxes extend upward to the eaves of the building, and above the space is open from end to end, allowing free passage-way for the doves and a roosting place for those not busy with domestic duties.

After the two pretty white eggs are laid the male takes his regular trick at sitting on them during the 21 days of incubation, and when the young are hatched he does his full share toward feeding them. Four weeks after the young have hatched they become marketable as squabs. The birds are in full feather, but not yet able to fly. A fast of 24 hours is the prelude to the flight into the dove house. This fast is imposed not to make them weak in spirit, but to clear their crops of food. Then a sharp knife opens a vein in the throat and as the blood oozes out the bird's brief career closes with a flutter.

While the flesh is still warm the feathers are plucked out, the crop is washed out and the denuded body is thrown into a tub of water to cool. The next day it is packed in ice for shipment. The market price for a pair of squabs is about half a pound, and the great market for them is New York. There is only a small demand for them in Detroit, Chicago, big and metropolitan as it is, is a poor market. Almost the entire product of Benzenstein goes to New York, and the shipment average three or four dozens a week the year round. The squabs command from $1.50 to $3.00 a dozen, and there is money in the business.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Get Rid of Useless Cockerels.

The poultry raiser who does not get as many cockerels as pullets among his chickens is fortunate. With the early hatches these cockerels may be sold as broilers at 15c or 20 cents each, but as the broiler prices go down later in the season they can be more profitable to keep some of the later ones until they weigh from 4 to 6 pounds each and sell them as roasting chickens. If a standard breed flock is kept, it may be profitable to keep some of the best ones until spring to sell for breeding purposes, but if they are not standard breed sell every one of them, and the poorest of the pullets with them, and next spring buy a good male to put with the flock and grade them up or buy eggs of some one well bred for hatching and keep no rooster at all. The extra number of eggs produced when no male runs with them will go far toward paying the extra price that may be asked for the pure bred eggs, and a flock of chickens, uniform in shape and color, will be a pleasure every time they are looked at, and a lot of chickens or a lot of eggs all alike, if of the right breeds, with yellow legs, portly and brown shelled eggs, will always sell better, and often at a better price than a mixed lot of all shapes and colors.—American Cultivator.

A Word For Dorkings.

As to their hardness, if the chicks are not crowded and get fair care during their first feathering they will give no trouble. As to the adult birds, they are as hardy as any breed and are extremely long lived; especially is this the case with the females. I have had hens a year of age and have had a record that even at this age they laid a fair number of eggs. Although our winters are often extremely cold, I know many farmers who do exceedingly well with Dorkings, and with the most ordinary kind of care. Occasionally I have remarked that writers claim that Dorking eggs were extremely infertile. I think there must have been some fault in the stock, or some single hen, but I have always found their eggs to be quite as fertile as those of any other breed. In conclusion, I may say that I feel perfectly satisfied that should any farmer decide to give Dorkings a trial and gives them a fair chance he will have no cause to regret it.—Cor. Poultry Monthly.

Hens Taking Vacations.

Soon the hens which have been laying well through the spring will be taking a vacation, even if they are not broody, and then is the time when there will be danger of their accumulating too much fat if they are given the same rations as they have been receiving. It is July or August and fatten the old fowl for market to give the young chickens more room. This is not a bad plan, but if all are disposed of in that way it leaves an intermission between that time and the time the pullets begin to lay, not usually earlier than November and often later, when there are no eggs.

BY-LAW NO.--

TO CLOSE UP A PORTION OF Second street in the Town of Deseronto and to exchange the Town of Deseronto second street so closed for a strip of land in block "G" in said Town of Deseronto.

Passed—1898. Whereas, by resolution of the Municipal Council of the corporation of the Town of Deseronto dated October 1st, 1890, it was agreed to exchange that part of Second street in the town of Deseronto lying south of the southerly line of Main street with the Rathbun Company for a strip of land sixty six feet wide running along the westerly side of block "G" from Dundas street to Stanley avenue, extended for the purpose of erecting a reservoir for the Water Works of said town on said strip of land and for the purpose of permitting the Rathbun Company to extend their wood distillery works across said part of said Second street and whereas all proper notices and advertisements have been given and all proper persons heard in connection with this By-law. Therefore the council of the corporation of the Town of Deseronto enacts as follows:

That that portion of Second street in the Town of Deseronto lying south of the southerly line of Main street be closed and stopped up as a public road.

That that portion of Second street in the Town of Deseronto lying south of the southerly line of Main street be exchanged with the Rathbun Company for a strip of land sixty six feet wide running along the westerly side of block "G" and extending from Dundas street to the southerly line of Stanley avenue, extended, containing 6537 of an acre.

That the Mayor and Clerk of the council of the corporation of the Town of Deseronto be and are hereby authorized and empowered to execute all deeds and documents necessary to give effect to this By-law by affixing their signatures and the official corporate seal of said corporation to such deeds and documents.

I hereby certify that the above is a true and correct copy of the By-law intended to be passed by the municipal council of the Town of Deseronto after four insertions in this paper.

R. N. IRVINE, Town Clerk
Deseronto, July 17th, 1898.

STOCO.

The R. C. congregation here are re-organizing their church. Day and Chalk have the contract of shingling and doing all the carpenter work. The shingling of the spire is being done by W. Gordon. It is a good advertisement in the eyes of the public and there is no doubt that Mr. Gordon will have the trade of the people of this district as being the best workmen that can be found in these parts.

Rev. Father Fleming's picnic takes place at Hickory Point, Tweed on Wednesday Aug. 21st. A good time is expected.

Frank Allure has purchased a new bike and wheeled to Tweed on Sunday; also J. Gordon has purchased one and spent Sunday in this country.

Mr. Mohr, of Peterboro, is a guest of his sister Mrs. Maloney during her holidays.

D. Koschore, of Peterboro, is in this vicinity purchasing live stock of all kinds from the farmers.

Hello there! Have you seen Murphy's prize baking powder? Why not what is it? Well this is A. No. 1 baking powder.

HALSTON.

The dry weather still continues and water is getting pretty scarce, nearly all the wells in the locality are dry and farmers are kept busy drawing water.

Harvesting is all over and threshing has been going on for the past two weeks. Reports indicate the yield this year will be much larger than other years, especially is this the case with wheat, barley and rye, peas not so good, but a better quality.

Our school opened on Monday with a fairly good attendance.

Miss Annie McAvoy, Rochester, is home on a visit to her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Pitt spent Sunday the guest of her brother, Michael Farrell.

Miss Nellie Shannon took her departure for Hastings on Saturday last to re-open her school on Monday 15th.

The fruit crop promises to be a failure this year. Plums are not to be had and apples and pears are very scarce.

Miss Annie Shannon who passed the recent examination for Public School leaving, intends taking a course in the Belleville High school.

The hops in this locality look very well and will probably be a fair yield, but not so good as other years.

Harry Braddon and mother went to Toronto day last week to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. P. Egan.

Patrick Farrell and wife spent Sunday in Lindsay.

Joseph Cowan, Centerville, accompanied by his mother passed here on Saturday to take a trip to the Flower city to visit friends.

NAPANEE MILLS.

Aug. 17.—The congregation of St. Jude's sang a hymn of thanksgiving and entertainment Wednesday evening last. It was a decided success and those who worked so hard for its accomplishment felt well repaid.

Rev. F. D. Woodcock presided in his usual pleasant manner. The choruses and instrumental music by local talent was all that could be desired. In the plays Featherston was leading comedian fairly brought down the house. Messrs. Hopper, Thurston and Mr. Morgan added their parts till it seemed people would never stop laughing. The quartettes rendered by Messrs. Shoney and Moore of Newburgh were the best of any of the kind given in Napanee Mills for years. Mr. Fowkes cultivated singing delighted the lovers of the music. Mr. H. Woodcock's recitation caused a burst of applause. The artistic paper work by Mr. Geo. Fox astonished all who saw it. "Ten little niggers" by ten young boys pleased the children immensely. In fact everything placed on the boards was good.

Edna Dunn daughter of Mr. P. Dunn, passed away Wednesday, Aug. 10th, with that fell disease consumption. She was aged 10 1/2 years. Two older sisters have died within the past few years of the same disease. Mr. Dunn has the sympathy of all.

Mrs. Roney of Warren, N. Y., is visiting her mother, Mrs. L. Lott.

Mrs. McCall of Toronto and Miss Moore of Newburgh visited Miss Dunn last night.

Mrs. Ramsey and Mrs. Kelly spent Thursday last with Mr. J. Carson, Mrs. C. Thompson for three or four weeks died on Tuesday morning, 10th inst. She was a woman in the prime of life and lived her life.

Several have fever here at present.

A SOFT ANSWER.
After the day when Bismarck was shot at (May 7, 1890) by a blind man, his wife said: "If I were in heaven and saw the villain standing on the top of a ladder leading down to hell I would have no hesitation in giving him a push."

"Hush, my dear," replied Bismarck, you would not be in heaven, yourself with such thoughts as these."

A DISTRESSING MALADY CURED BY THE

USE OF PINK PILLS.

Right in our village is reported

another of the remarkable cures that make Dr. Williams' Pink Pills so popular. For instance, a case is reported of that of Mrs. E. W. Miller. The Advertiser interviewed her husband who was glad to tell us that he had been cured of a very distressing malady. He said for publication that others might read and have a remedy put into their hands, as he had. He said that he had been cured

Water at Last.

In McClure's Magazine there is an interesting account of Dr. Sven Hedén, a young Swedish traveler, who has been doing some remarkable work in Asia, in an attempt to cross the hitherto unexplored Takla-Makan desert. His party entered the desert April 10, 1896. The water was so scarce that they died of thirst. One of the survivors, however, one by one all the survivors succumbed.

"I went on alone," says Dr. Hedén.

"The forest was very dense and the night black. I had to wait almost not sleeping for ten days; I had drunk nothing for five. I crossed the forest crawling on all fours, tottering from tree to tree.

I carried the last of my strength and a crutch. At last I came to an open space.

The forest ended at a devastated plain.

This was a river bed. It was quite dry.

There was not a drop of water.

"I went on. I meant to live. I would find water. I was very weak, but I crawled on all fours and at last I crossed the river bed. It was three kilometers wide. I heard the sound of rushing water of a duck lifting and the noise of splashing water. I crawled in that direction toward a large pool of clear, fresh water.

"I thanked God first, and then I felt my pulse. I wanted to see the effect that drinking would have on it. It was
